CADETS: Call for Applications to the Editorial Board of

SOUNDING BRASS

VMI's literary and creative arts magazine, Sounding Brass, is seeking talented, motivated, and creative cadets to serve on its Editorial Board for the 2012-2013 school year. Deadline for applications is Friday, September 28, 2012.

Founded in 1966, Sounding Brass has an illustrious history of publishing fine works of fiction, non-fiction, poetry, art, and photography produced by the Corps of Cadets.

Positions Filled:

2012-13 Editorial Board

- Editor-in-Chief*: Michelle McCusker
- Business Manager*: Eric Alter
- Managing Editor*: Lindsey Carty
- Prose Editor*: Cabell Willis
- Arts Editor*: Amanda Berrios

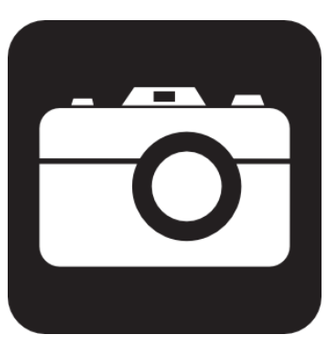
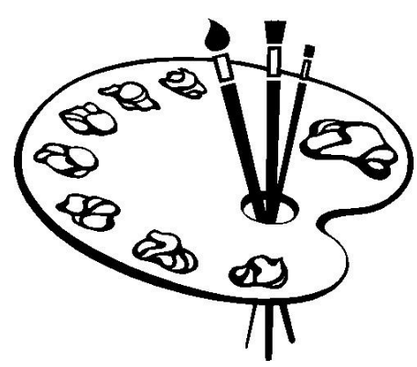
Positions Open and Job Description:

- Poetry Editor*: Choose and edit poetry manuscripts for publication; secure permission to publish; assist in revisions and formatting

- Production and Layout Editor*: Work with Editor-in-Chief and graphic designer to decide design and layout of all manuscripts and images; Work with graphic designer and printer to complete production of journal

If you would like to get involved with this great team and a very public and creative side of VMI, apply for the above open positions or offer your talents in other capacities. Applications are available on-line at: www.vmi.edu/iwp and in hard copy in the EN/FA Department office (SS 227). Return your application by e-mail to Peggy Herring (herringps@vmi.edu) or deliver to EN/FA Department office. Deadline: CAD September 28, 2012.
Applications will be reviewed by the Executive Editors.





Sounding Brass is a publication of the Institute Writing Program at Virginia Military Institute. Please direct questions or comments to Executive Editors, Dr. Jim Adams (adamsjl@vmi.edu) or Dr. Jenny Ramirez (ramirezjo10@vmi.edu)